

Food Safety and Hygiene Scotland

The Food Standards Agency states that:

“Food business operators are required by law, to ensure that food handlers receive appropriate supervision and instruction/training in food hygiene in line with their work activity and should enable them to handle food safely”.

So, whether you work in healthcare, social care, home care, a school environment, a nursery, a Café, bar, hotel, restaurant, fast food outlet or kitchen environment, this course provides essential information when seeking to meet your obligations and adhere to UK and EU requirements.

It's your responsibility to ensure that no-one is put at risk from food that has been prepared and/or handled by you and this course has been written against industry and sector standards/requirements and follows nationally recognised syllabuses that are used by both The Royal Society for Public Health (RSPH/RIPH) & the Chartered Institute of Environmental Health (CIEH) and in addition, covers specific information associated with food businesses in Scotland who operate under the Food Hygiene (Scotland) Regulations 2006.

Completing this course will help to ensure you meet your legal obligations for training and also highlights individual responsibilities and codes of practice relating to Food Hygiene. In addition, it illustrates the due diligence measures that should be taken to not only help protect public health but also protect YOU from the risk of prosecution.

The topics covered in this comprehensive course include:

- Food Safety – Exploring why food safety is so important
- Food Poisoning – What causes food poisoning
- Bacteriology –Types of bacteria and factors that can affect its multiplication
- Prevention of Contamination
- Temperature Control
- Personal Hygiene
- Food Pests and Controls
- Food Premises and Equipment
- Cleaning and Disinfection
- Food Safety Law and Enforcement

About this course

Catalog Reference : #288
Mapped to level : 2

Time Required (mins) : 120
Assessed : Yes

CPD Value : 2

For more information about how technology can help you to provide staff with flexible and affordable training, email us : ed@redrockb2b.co.uk

0845 094 3827